Donald Rodman, Andy Kareta, Mellissa Braham, Daryl Simmons, Dani Warbout and Anne Einerson.

Process:

All eligible past players are placed on a ballot, with each member of the selection

Committee asked to nominate a list of 5 finalists. At this time, nominations are also called for the Contributors category.

The 5 most nominated players are placed on the second ballot, as well as nominated contributors, and eligible coaches and referees, and forwarded to the Selection Committee.

In order to gain induction, a player must receive 75 percent of votes from the final ballot from the Selection Committee. A maximum of four players and a minimum of two players can be inducted each year, with a maximum of two non-players each year.

If a player does not receive a vote from any member of the Selection Committee in relation to choosing the 5 finalists over four consecutive years, that player will be deleted from all future ballots.
